To Whom It May Concern:

I want to express my gratitude for the "Do Not Call" legislation that is being passed Please don't leave too many loopholes.

I know that marketers are screaming that it is an infringement on "freedom of speech" and that it is unfair to businesses. But I would like to state - emphatically - that I am the one who pays for my phone.

A portion of my monthly income goes to the phone company for the privilege of having ready contact with my family members. I purchase the use of a telephone line solely for the purpose of my family members being able to reach me in an emergency - especially my children. My mother is in Michigan, my brother is in California, and my sister is in Kentucky. I live in Florida.

I think that it is extremely unfair to have to put up with countless solicitations - on my dime!

Thank you for protecting our rights - the ones who pay the telephone bills. I don't see at all where their rights are infringed upon when I am the one paying for my phone bill. They can have all the free speech they want - in the street in front of my house. But they have no right to come into my home, unwelcome via MY telephone line.

Sincerely,

Shirley A. Little

Thank you, thank you, thank you!!!
